CLAIM'S LIQUOR SEIZURE

MADE ON ILLEGAL WARRANT In the police court Monday morning when the case of Josef Zincofske of 23 Cove street was brought up on the charge of violation of the liquor law, the accused was represented by Attorney Roderick M. Douglass, who claimed that the search warrant which had been given to the police to search Zincoske's hom last Saturday night was an illegal one. Attorney Douglass further, contended that the liquor found by the police by the use of the alleged illegal warrant could not be used as evidence against the man, and he moved for his discharge. After the evidence had been given by he police as to the finding of the liquor n Zincofske's home, the case was con-inued for a week. It is understood here was no evidence of any sales shown fore the court. Attorney Douglass drew out the in ormation that the search warrant in thi ase had been issued by the prosecuting attorney upon the cath of two tax payers, us provided for in section 2785 of the general statutes of 1918, an act applying o the issue of search warrants. GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OF MR. AND MRS. C. J. ROATH Mr. and Mrs. Caivin J. Roath celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday evening with an informal recep-tion from 8 to 10 o'clock to about thirty friends at their home at 19 Hamilin street. Receiving with them were their son, Louis H. Roath of Springfield, and their daughter, Imogene A., with her husband, Joseph C. Fitch, of New Lon-

Dahlias were attractively used in the decorations for the parler and dining room and music was rendered during the evening by Miss Olive Linton, piano, and Miss Alma Fenton, violin.

Deacon James M. Young, an old time frierd of the family, appropriately ex-pressed the congratulations and good wishes of the assembled friends in a few wishes of the assembled friends in a few words and there were pleasant words of greeting from Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt, pastor of the Central Baptist church, of which Mr. and Mrs. Roath are members. Verses sent for the anniversary by Rev. Dr. J. B. Slocum and Mrs. Slocum, of Dayton, Ohlo, were read and Mrs. James M. Young presented the couple a beautiful by ket of yellow dahlias which contained $65 in gold coin, the gift of a number of friers. About $50 in gold besides was received in individual gifts from other friends and out of town relatives. atives. A number of those present al-so attended the silver wedding anniversa-

Ice cream and cake were served during the evening.

Scarcely showing the span of their years both Mr. and Mrs. Roath entered heartily into the pleasures of the evening and were the inspiration of the fre-quently expressed wish that they might reach the diamend anniversary.

They were married in this city, Oct.

Wingate, her home having been in Saco, Maine, where she was born April 28, 1849, the daughter of Ansel Wingate and Almira Stammon. Roath was born here July 11, 1847, the son of Edward N. Roath and Frances Johnson. At the time of his marriage he was employed as Adams Express ressenger, having been working for the ex-press company for ten years, and he continued with the company for a total period of 43 years, retiring twelve years ago on the pension list of the compan For the larger part of the time of h employment as express messenger he was on the run between this city and Worcester, but at one time, when the Norwich office was closed up, he was transferred to New London and for fifteen years was on the Shore Line run from New London to Providence. His period of service with the express com-pany ran back to the primitive days of the Adams Express business and he has seen it enlarge from its early New England territory to the wide scope of its modern development. His service has been singularly faithful and has been frequently recognized in expressions of commendation from the officials of the ew council in New Landon started off Monday evening by making dras-tic cuts in salaries that have prevailed. The salary of the city clerk has been $1,500 out of which he had to pay a stenographer. The town clerk's compen-sation has been through fees entirely and no one other than the town clerk knows what the amount has been. It has been estimated at from $3,200 to $7,000. The council fixed the salary of the combined offices at $2,400 per annum, and placed Julian D. Moran in the office. He will replace John Turner as town clerk and Harry Adams as city clerk.

BY NEW LONDON COUNCIL

The council fixed the salary of the director of law at $1,500. The corporation counsel has been getting $2,000 and had the new charter not prevailed an amendment to the old charter would have permitted the corporation counsel to have mitted the corporation counsel to have received $500 extra as counsel of the water board. Philip Z. Hankey was made director of law. He has been corporation counsel.

The compensation of the city treasurer was fixed at $2,000, which is $100 less than the former city treasurer. Fitch L. Comstock received. William A. Mer-
